

Dare Federal Communication Commission,

RE 17-108 Restoring Internet Freedom

I am worried that the protection that are currently in place will be weakened if we change the way they're enforced. We as consumers need these protections to ensure fair access to the internet. I currently live in an area that has a single internet provider. Changing the way the current protections are enforced may cause providers to increase the difficulty of accessing the internet in my area. I would support a new regulation style if it guarantees the same or better protections, but not if we lose any. Please keep the internet truly free.

Ken Meding